TO-DAY'S DISPATCHES.

Warlike Speech by the Grand Duke Nicholas.

The Dawson Exploration Party --Seizure of Sealers.

THE DAWSON EXPLORATORY PARTY HEARD FROM.

OTTAWA, Oct. 7.—The Interior Department has advices from the Dawson exploring and surveying party sent into Northern British Columbia, which has been gathering general information regarding that country. The party proposes to winter near Fort Reliance, about 1,000 miles north of Victoria. After obtaining more men the party will endeavor to penetrate across the country as far north as Mackenzie's Bay, on the Arctic Ocean. The explorers will start home by a new route. Descending the Mackenzie river they propose again entering civilization at Emmont(?) They expect to reach Ottawa next fall.

THE SEALERS SEIZURES.

The Dominion Government have been apprised of the decision of Judge Dawson, of Sitka, in regard to the sealers seized this year. All were found guilty of illegitimate sealing, and the skins found on the boats were declared forfeited to the United States Government. The claim of the Washington authorities to exclusive jurisdiction in the Behring's Sea will probably be fought out in the United States courts before it is made the subject for an International commission.

CABLE NEWS.

CHOLERA IN ITALY.

ROME, Oct. 7.—During the past twenty-four hours there has been twenty-one new cases of cholera, and ten deaths in Messina, and two new cases and three deaths in Palermo.

A WARLIKE SPEECH.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—Grand Duke Nicholas, first cousin of the CZAR, who arrived here yesterday, made a most inflammatory speech, in which he said: "Russia is at work with might and main to destroy the influence of Germany. Our family loves France. All efforts of the Czar are directed to lessen the German influence, which at one time was very powerful at the Russian court. But the time will soon come when the Russian Government will be composed exclusively of men whose sympathy is with France, but until then it will be difficult to obtain our effective alliance. But the day will soon come when I shall draw my sword, standing shoulder to shoulder, with the soldiers of France."

THE LORD MAYOR ACQUITTED.

DUBLIN, Oct. 6.—The case against Lord Mayor Sullivan, for publishing reports of the doings of the suppressed National League, was dismissed by the court on the ground that the Crown had not proven the section under the Nation report ed was of a suppressed branch of the league. Outside the court the crowds were wildly enthusiastic over the decision and the Lord Mayor's return to the city chambers was marked by a noisy but evidently popular demonstration. The crowds were so great that the civic procession was with the utmost difficulty enabled to proceed, and the cheers as the procession passed were almost deafening. As the crowd passed the offices of Tory newspapers a storm of hisses and groans arose, but there was not the slightest attempt at violence. When the Lord Mayor arrived at the Mansion House he addressed the multitude. He was frequently interrupted by cheers, but otherwise complete order prevailed. Sullivan said the national press had been victorious in its tussel with the coercion government. The news of the victory, he said, would gladden the hearts of Gladstone and Parnell. The only way to defeat an infamous law was to defy it. The plank upon which he would sleep in gaol had not yet been sawn. After the discharge of Sullivan the Crown counsel gave notice to the court that the government would appeal from its decision.

AMERICAN NEWS.

WHITES AND NEGROS.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 7.— Excitement over the Negro insurrection near Lawrence, Miss., has subsided. The whites captured and whipped a number of negro leaders and ordered them to leave the State.

KILLED BY A TRAIN.

OMAHA, Oct. 7.—Two men named Jas. Delaney and Dennis O'Shea were struck by an incoming train on the Union Pacific road yesterday afternoon and instantly killed. They were each in a buggy and were running a race on their return from a funeral.

THE CHINESE CONCESSIONS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Count Mitkiewietz has telegraphed his friends here that there is no truth in the story cabled from London to the effect that the Viceroy of China has withdrawn the banking, telegraph and telephone concessions. "Concessions," says the Count's dispatch, "have been granted, and neither party desire nor have they power to withdraw."

SUPPOSED TO BE DROWNED.

SANTA CRUZ, Cala., Oct. 7.—This morning John Jackson and another young man, hired a small skiff to go fishing in the bay. A heavy north wind was blowing and the bay was very rough. Fears are now entertained that both are drowned. Fisherman are out hunting for them.

SCHOONER LOST.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—A dispatch to the Merchants' Exchange this morning from West Port, Humboldt Co., states that during a gale last night the schooner H. H. Knapp partly loaded with bark, and bound for this city, went ashore at nine o'clock. The crew took to the boats and landed in safety at 4:30 this morning. The schooner was valued at five thousand dollars.

THE M'GLYNN CASE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—It became known to-day that Bishop Moore of St. Augustine, Florida, had sent another application to the Pope to have the case of Dr. McGlynn re-opened. Catholic authorities here are of opinion that Moore's efforts would be useless, inasmuch as McGlynn had refused to obey the mandate calling him to Rome.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.

SALT LAKE, Oct. 7.—News has just reached here of a horrible accident at a sawmill near Utah, northern line, whereby Frank Goodsell lost his life. It appears he was fixing a belt on the engine that runs the pump, and by some means his blouse caught in the belt and he was revolved around the main stage of the engine with great velocity until every bone in his body was broken, his legs torn off and his entrails scattered about in the dirt. His heart was found in one place and his lungs and liver in another.

THE W. U. BUYS THE B. & O. TELEGRAPH LINE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Jay Gould last night acknowledged that the Western Union had bought the Baltimore & Ohio telegraph lines, saying they had agreed to pay $5,000,000 for their purchase.

OFFICIALLY RATIFIED.

The Board of Directors of the Western Union to-day officially ratified the contract of the purchase of the Baltimore & Ohio telegraph lines. The Western Union at once took formal possession thereof. President Garrett, of the Baltimore & Ohio, who arrived from Europe this morning, has given his approval in legal form.

DEATH OF A HAWAIIAN PRINCE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4.—Advices per steamer from Honolulu state that Prince Edward Abel Keliahonoui died the 24th ult., at the palace. He had been attending school at San Mateo, California, and returned home the last trip of the Australia. He had an attack of typhoid fever soon after arriving in San Francisco some four months ago, but recovered. He then returned to school, where he was again attacked with illness, and by the advice of the resident physician he was sent home. On arriving there he gradually grew weaker until he died. Prince Edward was born at Kalaa, Honolulu, Oahu, on the 13th of May, 1869, making him 18 years and 4 months old. He is the second son of David Kahalopouli Piikoi, and her late Royal Highness Princess Kekaulike, governess of Hawaii, sister of Her Majesty the Queen.

DENNIS KEARNEY, THE NOTORIOUS.

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—Dennis Kearney, the agitator, passed through the city to-day on his way to New York, where he will take part in the three-cornered political struggle waging between the Democrats and Republicans and followers of Henry George. Kearney, on reaching Chicago, made an immediate effort to see the condemned anarchists, particularly Parsons. The Pacific coast agitator was quietly, but firmly, denied admission to the jail by the officer in charge. He went away lamenting and telling how four years ago he had advised Parsons to leave bombs alone or he would surely get his neck in a halter; but Parsons only laughed at him. Kearney says that in New York he will make a series of speeches, taking the ground that the question of questions for working men at this time is not far off, and it's the issue relating to land taxation.

A JURY BRIBER.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—Judge Sullivan to-day set the trial of James McGord, for jury bribing, for Wednesday next.

THE PRESIDENTIAL PARTY.

MONTPELIER, Oct. 7.—The Presidential party were driven to the Soldiers Home this morning. The people doffed their hats and waved their handkerchiefs, while occasional cheers broke forth. When the cavalcade arrived at the Home the maimed veterans were drawn up in a line and saluted the President and his wife as they drove down the line. The party then proceeded to the depot and took train for Madison, the home of Secretary Vilas. The appearance of Mrs. Cleveland on the platform was the signal for an especial outburst of enthusiasm from the ladies, who waved their handkerchiefs and parasols in compliment to the cheering.

COUNTY COURT.

(Before Sir M. B. Begbie, C. J.)

THURSDAY, Oct. 7th.

Menzies vs. Lewis & Co., for advertising. Judgment entered for plaintiff with costs for $4.

Larbonne vs. Mrs. Bray, settled out of court.

Lewis & Co., vs. Menzies for $40, settled out of court.

Clements vs. Englehardt. Judgment for plaintiff in the amount of $5 to be reduced to 1 cent on the return of disputed property, costs to be divided.

Ah Gee vs. Sparrow. Judgment for plaintiff for $85.85.

Mills vs. Zoelli. Judgment for $15 for plaintiff and costs.

Astrico vs. Larimer. Judgment for plaintiff for $11.12 and costs.

Nicholles & Renouf vs. Robelee; Johnson, Walker & Flett vs. Nicholles & Renouf, and Robelee: In February last Messrs. Nicholles & Renouf secured a judgment against the defendant, Robelee, for $1,000 and $8 costs. The judgment was registered against the house and lot of the defendant.

Johnson, Walker & Flett had also commenced proceedings against Robelee but did not recover judgment until 27th May, the judgment being duly registered. J., W. & F. impeached the judgment of Nicholles & Renouf, and on the 26th August the chief justice directed a feigned issue to be tried as to whether there was any consideration for the promissory note for which Nicholles & Renouf recovered judgment. Also as to whether the said judgment was confessed by the said Robelee voluntarily or in collusion with Nicholles & Renouf with intent to prefer Nicholles & Renouf to other creditors. Several witnesses were called, and Mr. Gannaway, for Johnson, Walker & Flett, and Mr. Mills, for Nicholles & Renouf, argued the legal points involved with great acumen. His lordship has now delivered judgment, finding the issues in favor of Nicholles & Renouf, and on the law point following the decision of Macdonald vs. Crombie. Judgment for Nicholles & Renouf, with costs.

Driving Park.

Two races were run at the Victoria Driving Park to-day. In the first race, quarter-mile dash, Akenhead's "Sleepy Dan," Porter's "Why Not" and Johnson's "Pedro" ran. In the buggy race the entries were Martin's "Hoodlum," McGuinnis' "Prince" and Hall's "Island Belle." "Why Not" won the first race by three lengths.

The Scotch papers are in ecstacies over the growth of a potatoe by Mr. Taylor, merchant, Methven, weighing 1 pound 6½ ounces, and measuring 12½ inches in width and 15½ lengthwise. As compared with British Columbia's tubers it is but as a mouse to a good sized terrier.

GOSSIP BY CABLE.

What the Great Crowned Heads of Europe are Doing.

Salisbury's Health--Late Prince Consort--Gossipy News.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Notwithstanding the attractions of Royalty at Hamburg and the increasing popularity of everything German in the way of cures, the season at Spa has drawn a goodly number of visitors of all nationalities, and especially Spanish and English to that fashionable Belgian resort. The weather at Aix-les-Bains during September has been magnificent. An eligible building site has been purchased by the Queen, and the inhabitants look forward to a repetition of last year's visit in the spring.

THE PRINCE OF WALES' CHILDREN.

Princess Louise of Wales has not derived much benefit from her visit to the Engadine. The very delicate state of her health has caused anxiety for some time past, and her condition is now far from satisfactory. Prince Albert Victor will not return to Gibraltar, nor is he to return to the Tenth Hussars. It has just been settled that the young Prince is to be attached for 6 or 7 months to the Ninth Lancers, at York, and the removal of the regiment from York has been deferred for a year in consequence of the royal advent.

BIOGRAPHY OF THE PRINCE CONSORT.

A popular biography of the Prince Consort has been written by the Rev. William Tulloch, son of the late Principal Tulloch, and the Queen has been engaged since her arrival at Balmoral in revising the proofs thereof. This work will contain several anecdotes contributed by Her Majesty.

LORD SALISBURY'S ILL HEALTH.

The health of Lord Salisbury has become a matter of serious concern to his friends, and especially to his colleagues. When they look to the future of the Administration the question of the Prime Minister's ability to sustain the burden of cares and responsibilities of office cast the darkest shadow upon the outlook. This is one of the great factors of the political situation which must not be overlooked. From this cause, if from no other, the reconstruction of government is probable within the next six months. Lord Salisbury's medical advisers have enjoined as much repose as it is now possible for the Prime Minister to obtain, and their orders are being scrupulously observed; but a very distinguished Unionist said last night that the greatest peril of the government existed in the infirmity of Lord Salisbury's health.

PARNELLISM AND CRIME.

The Irish Times correspondent sends a remarkable story denying that Moser and Williams have been befooled in their search for criminatory correspondence in America bearing on "Parnellism and crime." On the contrary, says this correspondent, they have secured a valuable consideration for the £3,000 they have expended on their American tour.

PROF. HUXLEY AND SPIRITUALISM.

Professor Huxley has lately been making inquiries into the phenomena of spiritualism, and has expressed a desire further to inquire into the subject. The spiritualists have already secured the adhesion of Professors Crooks and Wallace. What a victory if they bag Professor Huxley!

CHARLES DICKENS' LECTURES.

Within the next few days Mr. Charles Dickens will leave London for America to give readings from his father's works in the leading cities of the States. A hearty welcome without doubt awaits him for his father's sake, but he will soon make many friends of his own. He is an excellent public speaker, and his frank, genial manner will win for him a wide popularity. Mr. Dickens was entertained by his friends at a farewell supper at the Criterion last week.

BECOMING ALARMED.

A London cablegram says: The Unionists papers are changing their tone of exultation at Mr. Balfour's first coup and are getting alarmed at the growing disorder in the country. Liberal members who have just visited their constituents tell me that the reaction in favor of Home Rule is unmistakable.

PROF. GOLDWIN SMITH

In the Contemporary Review, says the railway question in Manitoba, with the movement in favor of Commercial Union sweeping the Dominion, is a necessary substitute for the break up of the Commercial fiscal unity of the British Empire, and he concludes that the treatment of Manitoba by the Provincial Government foreshadows that to which Ireland will be subjected if Mr. Gladstone's bill become law.

CANADIAN CHEESE FOR MANCHESTER.

The Co-operative Wholesale Society of Manchester, an influential association, discussed at its annual meeting a proposal to build or rent a cheese factory in Ontario, to supply the Manchester market. The society's last year's importations amount in value to £1,126. The proposition was fully discussed and strongly supported. The discussion was ultimately adjourned for a year.

NOT A PROMISING FUTURE.

The Westminster Review, for the current month, contains a well written article on some of the social aspects of Canada, in which the writer offers interesting notes on some features of social life in the Dominion, dealing specially with Ontario. He alludes briefly to political topics, saying when the tariff proves baneful, as ultimately it must, there is no telling what the next move will be. Hence the future of the Dominion is not very bright.

SIR JOHN POPE HENNESSY

has purchase Rostillian Castle, County Cork, Ireland, presumably with the intention of occupying it as a permanent residence when he shall finally return to the United Kingdom. He has, however, consented to resume his duties as governor of the Mauritius temporarily, pending the selection of his successor.

"Gath" in Victoria.

George Alfred Townsend arrived on the North Pacific this afternoon. Mr. Townsend is well-known throughout Canada and the United States as one of the ablest newspaper correspondents on the Continent. His nom de plume, "Gath," is well known to readers of the New York Herald and other prominent newspapers throughout the Union. As an authority on questions relating to the political affairs of the American nation, Mr. Townsend has no equal.

GOLDEN NUGGETS.

Personal Notes---Mining Information---Markets---Lumber, &c.

T. S. Higginson, Crown Timber Agent, arrived by morning train.

Mr. Boulanger, D. L. S., is busily engaged in surveying the homesteads and ranches of settlers.

The Rev. A. H. Cameron conducted divine service here Sunday morning, and then left on the express for Donald.

Quite a number of miners from the Big Bend country are on their way here, going to the Perry Creek Co.'s mines at Kootenay. They are to receive $3.00 per day and board.

G. B. Nagle, Donald; A. Trombly, Rogers Pass; H. Daynard, Alaska; F. C. Wells, Pallisier, are in town.

Rumor of fever having broken out in Steell's troop of M. P. at Kootenay are being circulated about town to-day. However, we cannot vouch for its veracity.

Haymaking operations are in full blast in the low marshes, and many of the settlers are busily engaged in securing a full supply for their stock during the winter months.

Bangle Miller and party, of Donald, spent a few days fishing here, and were amply rewarded in securing a choice lot of trout, sunny and other fish, which are so abundant in this part of the Columbia river.

Lieut. and Lady Cochrane came down from the Lakes on the steamer Duchess. They have been rusticating in this section of Kootenay for a month, and have been charmed by the sublime scenery.

Large quantities of freight are being shipped from this point by the steamers Cline and Duchess. What with supplies for the Mounted Police, settlers and miners they are kept rustling.

Timber limit hunters have been ranging the forest for timber, and two new saw mills will be erected here during the winter. A new steamer will also be built by Cochrane, Armstrong & Co. to ply on the Columbia waters.

Mr. Granger, a Scottish gentleman and representative of capital, has been examining some of the leads in this section. He stated to a friend that Jubilee Mountain was one of the most wonderful deposits of mineral he ever saw. When leaving for the east he declared it his intention of returning at an early day to have a hand in developing this mountain of mineral.

NANAIMO NEWS.

A Shooting Accident--Water Works --Building Improvements, &c.

Yesterday about noon a stranger was out in the woods in Cedar District shooting grouse, and accidentally shot another party while in the act of shooting a bird that he had put up. Neither party had the least knowledge of the proximity of each other. The loud cries of the party shot alarmed the shooter and he at once rushed through the thick brush to the assistance of the wounded man, who was found to be badly peppered with the flying shot, at a distance of about 40 to 50 yards from where he shot. They at once brought the wounded man in to the city for medical aid. The shooting was entirely accidental, and is reported as not very serious.

Mr. Stevens, who has had the contract for laying the pipes of the Nanaimo Water Works, has succeeded, by energy and indomitable perseverence, in getting the pipes connected from the dam to the city before the rainy weather sets in. He has pushed the work amazingly, working night and day to achieve this result, and he must feel justly proud at what he has done considering the obstacles he has had to contend with. The company will at an early day turn on the water to test the mains, and the work in town will be pushed undoubtedly with the same vigor if under Mr. Stevens' management.

The harbor begins at last to look as of old; four full-rigged ships are loading and awaiting to load coal. The steamer Empire arrived last night with a very heavy freight for our merchants and coal companies. The Port Victor is expected at Wellington wharf to-day.

The new court house is advancing rapidly to completion. Henderson has commenced his brick building on Front St., and E. Pimbury's new drug store is beginning to raise itself in the foundation, the blasting and building both progressing at one and the same time.

The tank on Victoria Crescent was unquestionably filled none too soon, as the millinery establishment of Mr. McGregor had a narrow escape from fire on Monday evening, by the lace curtains blowing on a lighted candle, burning curtains, blinds, &c., but fortunately it was discovered in time to save further damage.

The shaft No. 1 is doing a little towards supplying coal, while Southfield and No. 3 are being pushed to meet the demand.

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL.

Mr. Perry, Liberal M.P. for Prince, P.E.I., has been sustained in his seat by the Election Court.

The Speaker's warrant for an election in West Bruce to fill the vacancy caused by Hon. Edward Blake's resignation, has been out for some time, but the Government for some reason delays the election.

Mr. Caron, Tory M.P.P. for Maskinonge, Que., has been unseated, because his agents bribed the electors to vote for him. It is expected that in the new election a supporter of the Liberal Government will win the seat.

In the trial of the election petition of Montague, M. P. for Haldimand, Chancellor Boyd has reversed eleven decisions of Judge Upper on the recount, which places Coulter about ten ahead. This will be attacked by McCarthy, counsel for Montague.

A Parliamentary return shows that at the end of last year there were 3,731,421 accounts open in Post-Office Savings Banks in the United Kingdom, the amount to their credit being £50,874,337. Of these 131,873 with £1,054,774 were in Scotland.

Dr. Johnson, of McGill University, who did so much to promote in Canada the observation of the transit of Venus in 1882, announces the result throughout the world that the earth's mean distance from the sun is 92,500,000 miles, with a possible error of 250,000 miles.

Sir Richard Cartwright will address his constituents in various portions of South Oxford within the next two weeks. The hon. gentleman sets a good example. The proper time to educate the masses in regard to public affairs is not on the eve of a general election.

Mr. John Lovitt, ex-M.P. for Yarmouth, having received a requisition signed by over eleven hundred electors asking him to offer for re-election, has issued a card announcing that he will be a candidate. He announces that he is a Liberal and in favor of reciprocity with the United States.

Sir Charles Tupper has admitted bribery by agents. This course is to be taken so as to confine the investigation to the personal charges against the ministry, and thus prevent an exposure of the systematic corruption which prevailed in Cumberland in Sir Charles Tupper's interest at the last election.

Several members of Parliament who were in Ottawa last week had it intimated to them by Ministers that Parliament would meet early next year, probably the last week in January. The date of the opening will not, however, be decided upon until all the members of the Cabinet are here.

The official report of the British Army Medical Department states that the health of the troops stationed at Halifax, numbering about thirteen hundred, is very satisfactory. The change of regiments from Bermuda to Halifax is recommended to take place early in the season, so that the troops may become accustomed to the severe changes of the varying climate.

The election of a Belgian by birth, who is a Roman Catholic, as Lord Mayor of London, is conspicuous among the events of the day. It attests the liberality of London sentiment, the coming of the better era, when men shall be judged by their merits and chosen for their worth, when bigotry shall cease and proscription for conscience sake and for nativity shall be no more.

The Hon. Mr. McLelan, Postmaster-General, has admitted bribery; the most conspicuous case being that of the cancelling of a debt of several hundred dollars, and the expenditure by his legal partner of $1500 in raising the standard of political morality and purity in Colchester. The charge of personal bribery was dropped. So far this makes two Cabinet ministers who have been compelled by the court to step down and out. More are yet to be heard from.

The present Conservative British Government is threatened with a new and most unexpected peril—the ill-health of Premier Salisbury. It is giving serious concern to both his friends and colleagues. His medical advisers have enjoined as much repose as it is now possible for the Premier to obtain, and their orders are being scrupulously observed; still a reconstruction of the government within the next six months is considered as probable.

The Dominion Government is in receipt of an invitation to send a representative to the Inter-Provincial conference to be held in Quebec next month. It may be taken for granted that the government will not accept the invitation. Some journals have gone so far as to state that the government looks upon the conference as unconstitutional, but that is mere rubbish. There is nothing in the world to prevent a number of gentlemen meeting together and discussing matters of provincial interest, but whether the respective legislatures to which they may belong will ratify their proceedings is a question for the future to decide.

OUT OF ITS RECKONING.

The Toronto Globe calls Mr. JOHN BRIGHT a "fossil Tory." Had the late Hon. GEO. BROWN been alive when the statement was made he would have kicked the roof off the Globe building, kicked the writer down stairs, and knocked the wind and piety out of all the deacons in Toronto who had the temerity to say so. JOHN BRIGHT the great tribune of British Liberalism a fossil Tory! It almost takes one's breath to hear it even mentioned. It is now supposed that the next time the Globe essays on a voyage of political discovery Sir JOHN MACDONALD will be found to be a good Grit, and Archbishop LYNCH an orthodox protestant and Orangeman. Verily, how vast a change has come over the great Globe!

THE CORRECT POSITION.

The London correspondent of the Toronto Globe cables that the contemporary Review contains an article by Prof. GOLDWIN SMITH on the railway situation in Manitoba. He reviews the grounds upon which Manitoba's claim rests, and arrives at the conclusion that not Manitoba only, but the whole Northwest, will have to be set free from the monopoly, and as the nation's faith must not be broken the Canadian Pacific will have to be indemnified. This is the position which THE TIMES, many months since, advocated as being the correct and fair one, both for the Dominion and the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. There can be no disputing the fact that the syndicate who took hold of the undertaking in 1881 regarded the monopoly clause as one of vital importance. To annul that portion of the bargain the Dominion must grant an equivalent and that can only be done by way of indemnification. The honor and integrity of the country must be sustained, otherwise we shall be pointed at with disdain as repudiators and unworthy of confidence in the monetary and great commercial centres of the world. The Professor suggests that as the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council can consider only strictly legal questions, a mixed committee composed of statesmen and jurists should consider the question of the constitutional rights of Manitoba and the Northwest. He proceeds to argue that the railway question is fundamentally connected with the tariff question, and declares that the movement in favor of Commercial Union with the States is now sweeping the Dominion with force as great as its spontaneity has been. The issue cannot be doubtful. In his opinion the death knell of the Separatist policy, of which the Macdonald Government has long been the organ, has to all appearances been tolled.

RATHER OMINOUS.

The neglect of the Czar of all the Russias to meet the patriarchal German Emperor at Stetten a few days since, to say the least, is ominous. He was so near that if the relations between the two governments had been as cordial as was once the case, the Kaiser's nephew would not have lost this, possibly the last, opportunity of meeting his uncle and using his best endeavors to bring about a conference between the Russian Chancellor and Prince Bismarck. That such a meeting was actually contemplated on the German side is undoubted, but the Czar was seemingly too angry with Germany to respond; and his plain refusal of the proffer must be taken as a sign that the alliance of the three Emperors is at an end. What this rupture may portend will probably soon be seen. Affairs in the Balkans are fast approaching a crisis. The latest Russian move—the sending of a Russian general on a mission to Bulgaria invested with the authority of Turkey—has been checkmated by prompt formation of an exceptionally strong Bulgarian Ministry, which with M. STAMBOULOFF, the Gambetta of Bulgaria, at its head, will offer an unbending resistance to any usurpation of authority by General ENDROU, either as Russian or Turkish envoy. The mission must be abandoned or end in a fiasco, and this is another injury to Russian pride; but what will ensue cannot be seen from day to day. It is likely that we are on the eve of great events; there may be something in the rumor that Hungary is about to break loose from the entanglements of Austrian diplomacy, and strike out for herself in the Balkans. A Balkan confederation with the hegemony of Hungary would offer an insurmountable obstacle to the Russian propaganda, and might be the best solution of the Balkan question. It appears to us that the projection of a powerful State—as Hungary now is—into that question would at once frustrate the Russian design of absorbing the smaller nationalities of the Balkan Peninsula piecemeal.

Judgment on the election petitions ought to stock the political graveyard with the remains of Montague, of Haldimand, and such usurpers who have been filling offices to which the people elected better men. Politicians who draw salaries for sitting as representatives of the criminal errors of polling officials in parliament should be confined in private life. The country needs straight men at Ottawa. But the members who gild such outrages as the Queen's County iniquity with their approval are meaner than the partisans who profit directly by the crime that sets them in the place of the chosen of the majority.

The autocratic Speaker of the British House of Commons recently suspended Mr. Graham, M. P., for alluding to the Lords as "a number of highly respectable old gentlemen." The ruling appears to be that flattery, unless moderate, amounts to vituperation.

GIVING OUR CASE AWAY.

The Hon. PETER MITCHELL of the Montreal Herald, ex-Minister of Marine and Fisheries, in a recent issue of his journal reviews the seizure of the British and American vessels in the Behring Sea, the action of the United States Government thereon; the recent trial at Sitka and the position taken by Great Britain and Canada on the question, observes that it is sufficient to say that Great Britain declines to admit the claim as being opposed to international law and her own rights, just as the United States did when the claim was made by Russia. Under the circumstances, the question was one to be settled without delay by the Governments of Great Britain and the United States. The question is a simple one: does the United States intend to sustain the contention that a nation could acquire the right from another to exclusive possession of an open sea of several hundred miles in width and length, and does great Britain intend to concede this? The proceedings of the Alaskan court had nothing to do with the question, and the delay of fourteen months was unnecessary and improper. The question is distinct from any other open question between the two nations and involves rights which are not exclusive to the United Kingdom. During the delay and while the action of the diplomatists was such as to increase instead of shortening that, Canadian vessels are seized, Canadians imprisoned and the trading rights of the Dominion molested. The course that Sir JOHN MACDONALD should have adopted was to press for an immediate cessation of these seizures, with restitution and reparation to the persons already injured. He had nothing to do with the procedure of the Alaska court or any other American court. Great Britain contends that the United States Government has no more jurisdiction outside the three-mile limit in Behring sea than it has in the sea of Azof, and therefore does not admit any right of the American courts in the matter. But it appears that Sir JOHN and Mr. FOSTER between them sent a Mr. DRAKE, Q. C., to Alaska to take action in the court there on behalf of the captured sealers. He reports that he has appeared in the court there and filed "a demurrer to the information lodged against the masters and mates," and by doing so places Canada in the position of recognizing the jurisdiction of this Alaskan court. He states that he has made arrangements with the United States Attorney regarding securities in case the Alaskan judge should adhere to his decision and an appeal should be asked for. What is the interpretation to be placed on this? If Sir JOHN MACDONALD causes Canada to appear as a litigant in the United States court, it is fair to presume in such a case as this that the jurisdiction of that court is admitted. Canada has nothing to do with the U. S. courts. The question is an international one in which we look to Great Britain to maintain her own and our rights and to do so by communication with the government of the United States. Canada's contention is that the seizures of her vessels was in point of fact an act of piracy, and to appear before the courts of the United States is a surrender of that contention. It is much to be feared that the long and unnecessary delay, the action of the government in Alaska, and the several paragraphs in the government journals which appear from time to time concerning the scope of the recently appointed commission's work is preparatory to another surrender of Canada's rights and interests. If this should prove to be so the question will be asked and seriously considered, of what benefit is it to remain indefinitely in our present position of dependence in the British Empire.

The following is an extract from the opening number of the San Francisco American: "Irish Home Rule has become almost as grave and dangerous a problem for the United States as it is to England. It dominates our politics. Each party in its gravelling for the Irish vote, anxiously bids against the other, which will insert the strongest Home Rule plank in its platform. Our public men, both those in office and those eager to get in, make Ireland's cause their own. Allegiance to the green Isle and not this country has become patriotism. It is considered the proper thing for our Mayors and Governors to preside at meetings which plot against a power with which we are at peace rather than attend to affairs American. Our municipal, State, and national needs are made subordinate to the petty portion of the British Empire which happens to be dissatisfied with itself and everything around it. Our daily papers are filled with glowing gush over Parnell and his manœuvres in Parliament, to the exclusion of almost every other class of news. We have made the business of governing Ireland our own, and we have about lost the ability to rule ourselves. What, with appeals for the Irish, the German, and the Scandinavian vote, the necessity of reconciling this faction of the foreign element with political honor and place, that faction with the spoils and steals of office, and the other with promises drawn on the next election, payable without grace from the public funds, there is but little left of America in state affairs. The time is come for Americans to assert themselves. Our political demagogues and mountebanks should be taught the lesson that the people of this country are interested in the welfare and good government of the United States above all other countries, and that we have but little concern as to the success of either party in a British Parliament, or the quarrels of the nations and races on the European continent. Less Home Rule talk and bluster and a rigid enforcement of American law, the certain punishment of crime, and the overthrow of boosism and corruption in politics meet the demands of the American people."

AYER'S Sugar-Coated Cathartic PILLS.

If the Liver becomes torpid, if the bowels are constipated, or if the stomach fails to perform its functions properly, use Ayer's Pills. They are invaluable.

For some years I was a victim to Liver Complaint, in consequence of which I suffered from General Debility and Indigestion. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills restored me to perfect health.—W. T. Brightney, Henderson, W. Va.

For years I have relied more upon Ayer's Pills than anything else, to my bowels. These Pills are mild in action, and do their work thoroughly. I have used them, with good effect, in cases of Rheumatism and Dyspepsia.—G. F. Miller, Attleborough, Mass.

Ayer's Pills cured me of Stomach and Liver troubles, from which I had suffered for years. I consider them the best pills made, and would not be without them.—Morris Gates, Downsville, N. Y.

I was attacked with Bilious Fever, which was followed by Jaundice, and was so dangerously ill that my friends despaired of my recovery. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and soon regained my customary strength and vigor.—John C. Pattison, Lowell, Nebraska.

Last spring I suffered greatly from a troublesome humor on my side. In spite of every effort to cure this eruption, it increased until the flesh became entirely raw. I was troubled, at the same time, with Indigestion, and distressing pains in

The Bowels.

By the advice of a friend I began taking Ayer's Pills. In a short time I was free from pain, my food digested properly, the sores on my body commenced healing, and, in less than one month, I was cured.—Samuel D. White, Atlanta, Ga.

I have long used Ayer's Pills, in my family, and believe them to be the best pills made.—S. C. Darden, Darden, Miss.

My wife and little girl were taken with Dysentery a few days ago, and I at once began giving them small doses of Ayer's Pills, thinking I would call a doctor if the disease became any worse. In a short time the bloody discharges stopped, all pain went away, and health was restored.—Theodore Esling, Richmond, Va. ††

CHAPTER XVIII.

WAR! RED WAR.

Telling Umslopogaas to wait, I tumbled into my clothes and went off with him to Sir Henry's room, where the Zulu repeated his story word for word. It was a sight to watch Curtis' face as he heard it.

"Great heavens!" he said; "here have I been snoring away while Nyleptha was nearly murdered—and all through me, too. What a fiend that Sorais must be! It would have served her well if Umslopogaas had cut her down in the act."

"Ay," said the Zulu. "Fear not; I should have slain her ere she struck; I was but waiting the moment."

I said nothing; but I could not help thinking that many a thousand doomed lives would have been saved if he had meted out to Sorais the fate she meant for her sister. And, as the issue proved, I was right.

After he had told his tale Umslopogaas went off unconcernedly to get his morning meal, and Sir Henry and I fell to talking.

At first he was very bitter against Good, who, he said, was no longer to be trusted, having designedly allowed Sorais to escape by some secret stair when it was his duty to have handed her over to justice. Indeed he spoke in the most unmeasured terms on the matter. I let him run on a while, reflecting to myself how easy we find it to be hard on the weaknesses of others, and how tender we are to our own.

"Really, my dear fellow," I said at length, "one would never think, to hear you talk, that you were the man who had an interview with this same lady, yesterday, and found it rather difficult to resist her fascinations, notwithstanding your ties to one of the loveliest and most loving women in the whole world. Now suppose that it was Nyleptha who had tried to murder Sorais, and you had caught her, and she had pleaded with you, would you have been so very eager to hand her over to an open shame and to death by fire? Just look at the matter through Good's eye glass for a minute before you denounce an old friend as a scoundrel."

He listened to this jobation submissively, and then frankly acknowledged that he had spoken harshly. It is one of the best points in Sir Henry's character that he is always ready to admit it when he is in the wrong.

But, though I spoke up thus for Good, I was not blind to the fact, however natural his behavior might be, it was obvious that he was being involved in a very awkward and disgraceful complication. A foul and wicked murder had been attempted, and he had let the murderess escape, and thereby, among other things, allowed her to gain a complete ascendancy over himself. In fact he was in a fair way to become her tool—and no more dreadful fate can befall a man than to become the tool of an unscrupulous woman, or indeed of any woman. There is but one end to it: when he is broken, or has served her purpose, he is thrown away—turned out on the world to hunt for his lost self respect. While I was pondering thus and wondering what was to be done—for the whole subject was a thorny one—I suddenly heard a great clamor in the court yard outside and distinguished the voices of Umslopogaas and Alphonse, the former cursing furiously and the latter yelling in terror.

Hurrying out to see what was the matter, I was met by a ludicrous sight. The little Frenchman was running up the courtyard at an extraordinary speed, and after him sped Umslopogaas like a great greyhound. Just as I came out he caught him, and lifting him right off his legs, carried him some paces to a beautiful but very dense flowering shrub which bore a flower not unlike the gardenia, but was covered with short thorns. Next, despite his howls and struggles, he with one mighty thrust plunged poor Alphonse head first into the bush, so that nothing but the calves of his legs and his heels remained in evidence. Then, satisfied with what he had done, the Zulu folded his arms and stood grimly contemplating the Frenchman's kicks, and listening to his yells, which were awful.

"What art thou doing?" I said, running up. "Wouldst thou kill the man? Pull him out of the bush!"

With a savage grunt he obeyed, seizing the wretched Alphonse by the ankle, and with a jerk that must have nearly dislocated it, tearing him out of the heart of the shrub. Never did I see such a sight as he presented, his clothes half torn off his back, and bleeding as he was in every direction from the sharp thorns. There he lay, and yelled and rolled, and there was no getting anything out of him.

At last, however, he got up, and ensconcing himself behind me, cursed old Umslopogaas by every saint in the calendar, owing by the blood of his heroic grandfather that he would poison him and "have his revenge."

At last I got the truth of the matter. It appeared that Alphonse habitually cooked Umslopogaas' porridge, which the latter ate for breakfast in the corner of the court yard, just as he would have done at home in Zululand, from a gourd, and with a wooden spoon. Now Umslopogaas had, like many Zulus, a great horror of fish, which he considered a species of water snake; so Alphonse, who was as fond of playing tricks as a monkey, and who was also a consummate cook, determined to make him eat some. Accordingly he grated up a white fish very finely and mixed it with the Zulu's porridge, who swallowed it nearly all down in ignorance of what he was eating. But unfortunately for Alphonse he could not restrain his joy at this sight and came capering and peeping round, till at last Umslopogaas, who was clever in his way, suspected something, and after a careful examination of the remains of his porridge, discovered "the buffalo heifer's" trick, and in revenge served him as I have said. Indeed, the little man was fortunate not to get a broken neck for his pains; for, as one would have thought, he might have learned from the episode of his display of axmanship that le monsieur noir was an ill person to play practical jokes on.

This incident was unimportant enough in itself, but I narrate it because it led to serious consequences. As soon as he had stanched the bleeding from his scratches and washed himself, Alphonse went off, still cursing, to recover his temper, a process which I knew from experience would take a very long time. When he had gone, I gave Umslopogaas a jobation, and told him that I was ashamed of his behavior.

"Ah, well, Macumazahn," he said, "you must be gentle with me, for here is not my place. I am weary of it—weary to death of eating and drinking, of sleeping and giving in marriage. I love not this soft life in stone houses that takes the heart out of a man, and turns his strength to water and his flesh to fat. I love not the white robes and the delicate women, the blowing of trumpets and the flying of hawks. When we fought the Masai at the kraal yonder, ah, then life was worth the living; but here is never a blow struck in anger, and I begin to think I shall go the way of my fathers and lift Inkosi-kaas no more," and he held up the ax and gazed at it in sorrow.

"Ah," I said, "that is thy complaint, is it? Thou hast the blood sickness, just thou and the Woodpecker wants a tree. And at thy age, too. Shame on thee, Umslopogaas!"

"Ay, Macumazahn, mine is a red trade, yet it is better and more honest than some. Better is it to slay a man in fair fight than to suck out his heart's blood in buying and selling and usury, after your white fashion. Many a man have I slain, yet is there never a one that I should fear to look in the face again; ay, many are they who once were friends, and whom I should be right glad to sniff with. But there! there! thou hast thy ways, and I mine; each to his own people and his own place. The high veldt ox will die in the fat bush country, and so it is with me Macumazahn. I am rough, I know it, and when my blood is warm I know not what to do, but yet will thou be sorry when the night swallows me and I am utterly lost in the blackness; for in thy heart thou lovest me, my father, Macumazahn the fox, though I be but a broken down Zulu wardog—a chief for whom there is no room in his own kraal, an outcast and a wanderer in strange places; ay, I love thee, Macumazahn, for we have grown gray together, and there is that between us that cannot be seen, and yet is too strong for breaking;" and he took his snuff-box, which was made of an old brass cartridge, from the slit in his ear, where he always carried it, and handed it to me for me to help myself.

I took the pinch of snuff with some emotion. It was quite true I was much attached to the bloodthirsty old ruffian. I don't know what was the charm of his character, but it had a charm; perhaps it was its fierce honesty and directness; perhaps one admired his almost superhuman skill and strength, or it may have been simply that he was so absolutely unique. Frankly, with all my experience of savages, I never knew a man quite like him, he was so wise, and yet such a child with it all; and though it seems laughable to say so, like the hero of the Yankee parody, he "had a tender heart." Anyway, I was very fond of him, though I should never have thought of telling him so.

"Ay, old wolf," I said, "thine is a strange love. Thou wouldst split me to the chin if I stood in thy path to-morrow."

"Thou speakest truth, Macumazahn; that would I if it came in the way of duty, but I should love thee all the same when the blow had gone fairly home. Is there any chance of some fighting here, Macumazahn?" he went on, in an insinuating voice. "Methought that what I saw last night did show that the two great queens were vexed one with another, else had the 'Lady of the Night' not brought that dagger with her."

I agreed with him that it showed that more or less pique and irritation existed between the ladies, and told him how things stood, and that they were quarreling over Incubu.

"Ah, is it so?" he exclaimed, springing up in delight; "then will there be war as surely as the rivers rise in the rains—war to the end. Women love the last blow as well as the last word, and when they fight for love they are pitiless as a wounded buffalo. See thou, Macumazahn, a woman will swim through blood to her desire, and think naught of it. With these eyes have I seen it once, and twice also. Ah, Macumazahn, we shall see this fine place of houses burning yet, and hear the battle cries come ringing up the street. After all, I have not wandered for nothing. Can this folk fight, think ye?"

Just then Sir Henry joined us, and Good arrived, too, from another direction, looking very pale and hollow eyed. The moment Umslopogaas saw the latter he stopped his bloodthirsty talk and greeted him.

"Ah, Bougwan," he cried, "greeting to thee, Inkoos, thou art surely weary. Didst thou hunt too much yesterday?" Then, without waiting for an answer, he went on:

"Listen, Bougwan, and I will tell thee a story; it is about a woman, therefore wilt thou hear it; is it not so?

"There was a man, and he had a brother, and there was a woman who loved the man's brother, and was beloved of the man. The man's brother had a favorite wife, and loved not the woman, and he made a mock of her. Then the woman, being very cunning and fierce hearted for revenge, took counsel with herself, and said to the man, I love thee, and if thou wilt make war upon thy brother I will marry thee.' And he knew it was a lie, yet because of his great love of the woman, who was very fair, did he listen to her words and made war. And when many people had been killed his brother sent to him, saying, 'Why slayest thou me? What hurt have I done unto thee? From my youth up have I not loved thee? When thou wast little did I not nurture thee, and have we not gone down to war together and divided the cattle, girl by girl, ox by ox, and cow by cow? Why slayest thou me, my brother, son of my own mother?'

It is understood that the Dominion Government will not accept the invitation of Premier Mercier to attend his proposed inter-provincial conference. Politicians profess to regard the step taken by the provincial authorities as unconstitutional, negotiations for the holding of the assembly being made without the consent of the Federal Parliament or any of the Provincial Legislatures. The Government thinks the proceedings will have no weight or significance.

A trial established the agency of Convincing Logic in the election of the Postmaster-General in Nova Scotia last February. It was used by missionaries of Mr. McLelan who addressed $5 installments to the many owners of votes whose souls were not attuned to the nobler melodies of Tory campaign speeches. These wrought the triumphant result that the court has nullified by unseating the minister.

Quite Busy.

The harbor front presents quite a busy appearance at present. For fully half a mile the wharf is lined with vessels loading and unloading. Teams and drays are fully employed in transferring goods to and from the warehouses. These, with the longshoremen and the craft plying to and fro in the harbor, gives it quite an animated appearance.

A sailing race between the Frolic and Ada will take place at 1:30 p. m. to-morrow, starting from the outer wharf. W. Cotsford will have charge of the Frolic and John Moore will pilot the Ada. The race will be an interesting one, the two boats having sailed three races some time ago, the Frolic winning two races and the Ada carrying off one.

A Canadian Yacht.

The fate of the Dufferin, the Canadian yach that competed for the America's cup some years ago has not frightened Canadian yachtsmen. Another report comes that a yacht will be built in Hamilton, Ont., principally by funds supplied by Mr. Geo. Gooderham, of Toronto, to compete next year for the cup held for so many years by American yachtsmen. Englishmen and Scotchmen have done their best; give the Canadians a chance.

The company are to be commended on their liberality in allowing their fellow citizens an opportunity of inspecting this latest specimen of marine architecture.

Funeral of Miss Maimie Wark.

Mention of the funeral of the late Miss Maimie Wark, which took place on Wednesday last, was inadvertently omitted. The remains of the esteemed young lady were conveyed to St. James' Church and from thence to Ross Bay Cemetery, where the last and rites were performed. Deceased was a great favorite amongst her large circle of friends who deeply mourn her loss. Beautiful floral offerings covered the casket. The following friends of the deceased were pall-bearers: R. Finlayson, S. Tolmie, J. Tolmie, E. Wootten, H. D. Helmcken, J. S. Yates, A. Mouat and H. M. Yates.

Really! The Creme de la Creme.

Our River Wealth.

The Columbian says the salmon run still keeps fairly good, the average last night being 40 to a boat. A peculiar thing about last night's catch was that all the varieties of salmon were represented, which is not by any means common; the sockeyes, cohoes, spring salmon, qualaw (dog salmon), and hump back salmon were all there, but with the exception of the sockeyes and cohoes the rest are rejected as unfit for food. The bellies of the spring salmon are salted and find a ready sale. W. H. Vianen has an order from one firm for 50 bbls. of these bellies.

Sudden Death.

Mary Brown, a nurse girl in Captain Irving's family, took suddenly ill yesterday afternoon. Notwithstanding that medical attendance was sent for and everything done or the young sufferer which skill, kindness and assiduous care and attention could suggest, she gradually sank, and a few minutes past 3 o'clock this morning death came to her relief. She was aged about 13 years. Her friends reside in Vancouver. She was a great favorite in the Captain's family, who feel keenly the effect of her sudden death. The flags of the vessels of the company were floating to-day at half mast in token of sympathy with the commodore's family.

Memorial Service.

The members of the I. O. O. F., sojourning brethren included, will meet at the hall on Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and proceed to Pandora street church, where Rev. D. Fraser will conduct a memorial service. At 1:30 the members will march to the cemetery for the purpose of decorating the graves of deceased brethren. Donations of flowers will be thankfully received at the lodge room to-morrow afternoon and Sunday forenoon.

Work Suspended.

At noon last Saturday work was suspended by Messrs. Ryan & Haney on the Red River Valley railway. All contractors were notified to suspend operations by Messrs Munson & Allen, solicitors for the head contractors. The cause assigned for this step is the fact that the August pay roll was liquidated. The failure of Mr. Norquay to negotiate a loan is at the root of all the trouble. John has troublous times ahead of him—if the news be correct.

Duncan's Panacea.

An eastern journal says Mr. Duncan, missionary among the Metlakahtla Indians, who has recently left British Columbia for Alaska, gives his people an object lesson once a year, showing the effects of alcohol. A keg of whiskey is spread over the grass in the presence of all the people and, of course burns up all the herbage. The young are then told whiskey will have the same effect on them if they drink it. Mr. Duncan says since the use of this lesson he has had no trouble on the liquor question.

Catarrah, Catarrahal Deafness and Hay Fever.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever is cured in from one to three simple applications made at home. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent free on receipt of stamp, by A. H. Dixon & Son, 305 King street West, Toronto, Canada. Christian Standard. *

The Late J. Penberthy, C. E.

John Penberthy, C. E., died at 150 Mile House, on the Cariboo road, on the 21st Sept. He was a native of Cornwall, Eng., and came to this province from Portage Lake, Mich., about two years ago. He was a resident for some time of Port Hammond and Vancouver, where he sustained consiederable loss from fires. Recently he engaged to superintend mining operations on Horsefly river, Cariboo district, for Mr. W. T. Harper, and had just arrived there when taken ill with an acute inflammatory disease. Mr. Penberthy was a brother-in-law of Mr. Bowron, gold commissioner of Cariboo, and he leaves a wife and four children at Port Hammond.

Music on the Hill.

On Saturday (to-morrow) weather permitting, the band of H. M. S. Triumph, under the leadership of Prof. Agius, will play the following choice selection of music at Government Grounds:

Pas Redouble, Le Braconnier	L Benet
Selection, Il Travatore	G Verdi
Valse, Soldaten Leader	I Gung'
Selection, Martha	C Flotow
Gavotte, Stephanie	A Czibulka
Hungarian Dance

As this will be the last performance of the season lovers of good music should turn out and give the band a large audience. Our citizens are under an obligation to the members of the band for the many pleasant afternoons afforded them during the summer.

What Am I To Do.

The symptoms of Biliousness are unhappily too well known. They differ in different individuals to some extent. A Bilious man is seldom a breakfast eater. He frequently has no sensible appetite for liquids but none for solids of a morning. His tongue will hardly bear inspection at any time; if it is not white and furred, it is rough, at all events.

The digestive system is wholly out of order and Diarrhoea or Constipation may be a symptom or the two may alternate. There are often Hemorrhoids or even loss of blood. There may be giddiness and often headache and acidity or flatulence and tenderness in the pit of the stomach. To correct all this if not effect a cure try Green's August Flower, it costs but a trifle and thousands attest its efficacy. *

On Official Visits.

Mr Collingwood Schreiber, Engineer in Chief of the Dominion railways arrived from the east last night, accompanied by Mr C C Gregory, C E, of Nova Scotia, and registered at the Driard. The visit of these gentlemen is in connection with the Onderdonk contract on the C P R, and the matters in dispute between the government and the railway company as to the manner in which the contract was completed.

Mr H F Perley, Chief Engineer of the Public Works Department, visits the province for the purpose of making a personal inspection of our harbor are he can make a recommendation concerning it. Also to examine and report upon the dry dock, which, we understand, comes fully up to his expectations and the requirements of the contract for a high class of work. He will visit the mainland and make an examination of the Fraser river with the view of suggesting a plan for keeping its mouth clear and maintaining a proper channel for navigation. It is understood that vessels having a draught of 20 feet are anxious to ascend to the Royal city for the purpose of delivering and taking in cargoes. Anticipating such an event, Messrs. Edmunds and Webster are constructing a large wharf near their former mill and to which the track of the C P R will be extended. Mr Perley has inducted Capt Devereaux as dock master of the dry dock at Esquimalt. These officials will remain in the city a few days longer.

THE FORGERY CASE.

The Prisoner, McAdams, Committed for Trial on Both Charges.

Louis C. McAdams, on remand from Wednesday last, was brought before the magistrate this morning. Mr. Thornton Fell appeared for the defense.

B. Van Volkenburgh, sworn—Am a butcher in business in the city of Victoria; know the prisoner; the signature, "Ben Van Volkenburgh," on the note produced is not mine; know nothing regarding the note.

Charles Edward King, sworn—Live at Cedar Hill; am a farmer's son; have known McAdams for two months; served him with milk; the signature, C. E. King, on a note marked "A" is not my handwriting.

To Mr. Fell—Know that a man named C. E. R King lives on Government street; he goes by the name of C. E. King; the reason why I know he goes by that name is because I received a box addressed to C. E. King, which was not for me.

To the Superintendent—Believe that C. E. R. King is a commission agent on Government street; don't know his writing.

Stephen H. Holmes, sworn—Keep a store on Yates street; know the prisoner; on Sept. 8th McAdams said he needed more money and asked would witness let him have some more on paper that he could make; told him that if witness thought the security good he would let him have some more. McAdams asked witness to accept B. Van Volkenburgh for $150; said Mr. Van Volkenburgh was good, and witness drew the note produced; McAdams left, returning in about half an hour with the note signed L. C. McAdams and B. Van Volkenburgh; gave McAdams a cheque payable at the Bank of British Columbia for the sum of $150; McAdams said Ben Van Volkenburgh was the man who would endorse the note, and it was understood that the gentleman who gave evidence this morning was the man to sign the note.

To Mr. Fell—Do not know Ben Van Volkenburgh's signature and don't know his brother's name; did not know positively that Ben Van Volkenburgh was the Van Volkenburgh, although he was called Ben; don't know who has the most interest in the concern; had dealings with the concern and know that the book-keeper pays through his instructions; have sold a quantity of articles to the firm through Mr. Ben Van Volkenburg; know positively that Mr. B. Van Volkenburg is manager. The note is due to-morrow.

Supt. Bloomfield said this closed the evidence for the prosecution; the C. E. King on Government street, referred to in evidence, had been sent for, and it was ascertained that his name is not C. E. King.

The evidence in the two charges was read, and Mr. Fell informed the Court that McAdams reserved his defense.

His Honor committed the prisoner for trial at the ensuing assizes.

SMUGGLERS ARRESTED.

The Smuggled Cards Found in a Store on Johnson Street.

Customs Officer Hunter, whilst making his rounds last night, detected two men conveying smuggled goods from the steamer Geo. E. Starr. He immediately followed and lost sight of them on Johnson street. About 11:30 last night two firemen named Morris Sweeney and Joseph Martin went aboard the steamer and were arrested and locked up. They were brought before the police magistrate this morning, and, at the request of Mr. Hunter, remanded until to-morrow morning, bail being fixed at $250 each. Mr. Thornton Fell appeared for the defense. Shortly after noon to-day Mr. Hunter discovered the cards secreted in the back portion of a store on Johnson street. Mr. Frank Saforcede occupies the store and states that a man came running in about 8 o'clock last night with a package in his hands. The man passed through the store and went into the room where the cards were discovered. Saforcede says he was busy attending to customers and took little notice of the man. When the customs officer arrived at the store to-day the cards were produced and consisted of a half gross of playing cards valued at nine dollars, the duty payable on them amounts to eight dollars. Mr. Hunter had a run last night after the smugglers from the effects of which he is slowly recovering. The capture, for which Mr. H. is entitled to much credit, will, no doubt, end a business which has been going on for some time and the vigilance of Mr. Hunter should receive deserved recognition.

Manufacturing on the Mainland.

As indicating the rapid growth taking place on the mainland, the growth of the manufacturing establishments in New Westminster may be accepted as fair evidence. Reference has already appeared in these columns to the Royal City planing mills, the woolen factory and other industries. The Pacific Carriage Works owned by Messrs. Reed & Currie are an example of what push, energy and perseverance can achieve. Beginning in a small way a few years since, this concern has gradually crept ahead until it is now the largest of its kind north of San Francisco. The building is 132 feet long by 33 feet wide, and two storeys high. In the establishment are to be observed vehicles in all stages of manufacture. Here are to be found phaetons, buggies, democrats, express and butchers' waggons, heavy waggons, carts, drays and stages. In the new warehouse are stored several car loads of bar and other iron, steel, and such like iron as is used in connection with the business, amounting to several car loads. Wheels, hubs, spokes, and bent stuff are also in stock from well known eastern carriage goods houses. The wood is thoroughly seasoned second growth hickory, specially prepared for Messrs. Reid & Currie, proprietors of these works. It may here be observed that every vehicles turned out by them is shop made, none of the factory class being allowed to enter their stock. Hence the superiority of their goods. A dozen mechanics are employed by the firm, who also do a general blacksmithing business. They are a reliable firm and deserving the extended patronage they are receiving.

Another young concern is looming to the front, that of the Messrs. Wintermute Bros., who have embarked in the furniture manufacturing line. They have steam power and already are driving quite a business. They utilize native woods, which make up into very pretty sets. In the higher and more extensive classes, the wood is imported in the white and upholstered on the premises. They are good workmen themselves and thus able to insist on first-class work from their employees.

The old, reliable saddlery house of Messrs. Douglass & Deighton is doing a more extended business than ever. The Canadian Pacific has opened to this firm a new market for their goods, which, wherever tried, have been found to be unrivalled. The demand for Mexican saddles in the Northwest has assumed vast proportions, keeping quite a number of hands employed on this class of goods. Mr. Douglas superintends the work in person.

—Pendray & Co. have only sent a part of their No. 1 soap east. You can have your orders promptly filled by them on Humboldt street. □ *

let that cold of yours run on. You think it is a light thing. But it may run into catarrh. Or into pneumonia. Or consumption.

Catarrh is disgusting. Pneumonia is dangerous. Consumption is death itself.

The breathing apparatus must be kept healthy and clear of all obstructions and offensive matter. Otherwise there is trouble ahead.

All the diseases of these parts, head, nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs, can be delightfully and entirely cured by the use of Boschee's German Syrup. If you don't know this already, thousands and thousands of people can tell you. They have been cured by it, and "know how it is, themselves." Bottle only 75 cents. Ask any druggist. *

—You can have Brown's celebrated CHINAY WASHING POWDER at greatly reduced prices, manufactured by PENDRAY & Co., Humboldt street, Victoria. *
